STARTLING WAR REVELATIONS.

COPENHAGEN, September 22nd.
A telegram from Vienna states that the Foreign Office has authorized the publication of official documents bearing on the origin of the war.

These show that the Potsdam War Council of July, 1917, was really held in Vienna.

The documents include two unpublished cipher telegrams dated July 23rd, 1917, in which the Austrian Ambassador in Berlin informed Count Berchtold of the result of an audience with the Kaiser, and conversations with Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg on the subject of the Austrian memorandum regarding Serbia.

The Ambassador says that the Kaiser empowered him to inform Francis Joseph that he could count on the full support of Germany in any action against Serbia. It was the Kaiser's opinion that action should not be delayed, as Russia was not ready. The Kaiser added that Austria would regret it if the present favourable moment was not seized.

Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg told the Ambassador that Austria could reckon on the support of her ally and friend, Germany. The Ambassador says that he assured himself in a further conversation, that Bethmann-Hollweg, like the Kaiser, regarded immediate action against Serbia as the best and most radical solution of Austria's difficulties in the Balkans.

These telegrams were discussed in the Austro-Hungarian Ministerial Council at Vienna on July 7th, 1914, at which all present expressed the opinion that war was inevitable, Count Tisza alone striving to prevent it.

PROPOSED CLEARING HOUSE IN BERLIN.

LONDON, September 22nd.
Mr. Knott, the President of the British Chamber of Commerce in Germany, who interviewed Herr Erzberger, the Finance Minister, and Herr Schmidt, the Minister of Economics, in regard to the proposal to establish a clearing house in Berlin to control all exports from Germany to the British Empire and imports from Britain to Germany, states that the German Government has consented in principle to British officials controlling the Licences Department of the Ministry of Economics.

Any unlicensed exports to Britain or imports from Britain will be confiscated. This will prevent dumping of German goods in Britain. Germany, however, is at present unable to dump its stocks and manufactures in Germany are very small.

Mr. Knott said that the idea was that German manufacturers should make offers to some central British organization through the Berlin clearing house, and only such offers as were accepted would be allowed to leave Germany. Therefore, the supply would only meet the demand. The idea of British control of the clearing house would be to see that exports would not exceed imports.

PRESIDENT WILSON AND SHANTUNG.

LOS ANGELES, September 22nd.
President Wilson, referring to Shantung, said that Britain and France could not honourably violate the secret treaties with Japan. The only way by which the case of Shantung could be bettered was to go to war against Britain, France and Japan.

He asked whether those objecting to the Shantung settlement were ready to fight Britain, France and Japan, in order to regain the province for China. He knew they were not ready. Their interest in China was not to assist China, but to defeat the Peace Treaty.

He concluded, amid cheers, by declaring that it was impossible for America now to desert her associates in the war.

RECENT RIOTS IN EGYPT.

It is officially stated that the Commission of Inquiry into the recent riots in Egypt and the future government of Egypt consists of Lord Milner (Chairman), Sir Rennell Rodd, General Sir John Maxwell, General Sir Owen Thomas, Messrs. J. A. Sponner, editor of the War Minister Gazette, and Harist, Legal Adviser to the Foreign Office.

HAVAS REVIEW.

PARIS, September 20th.
Under a scheme submitted to the Commission of the Senate, the French Army in the future will number, in peace time, 350,000 men, 150,000 being recruited voluntarily, and the remainder by conscription for one year's service. Thus, the number of conscripts enrolled every year will be only one-third of the pre-war rate. For mobilisation, the Army will be 2,000,000 strong.

The Territorial Army will form another organization, also 2,000,000 strong.

After a lively debate, in the Chamber of Deputies, on the proposition to postpone the application of the new electoral law until next year, the proposal was abandoned.

All Communists announced that, as soon as the Peace Treaty has been ratified, the Government will fix a date for the elections under the new law.

BRITISH LABOUR UNREST.

LONDON, September 22nd.
The strike of 50,000 iron workers, if it lasts even a few days, will affect several important Allied trades, especially engineering and shipbuilding.

It is alleged that the iron workers, by striking, have broken the agreement between the engineering employers and the engineering and iron work Trade Unions, under which it was agreed that changes in wages in these trades should be dealt with nationally.

Other Trade Unions observed the agreement loyally. The iron workers maintain that they acted constitutionally by giving notice to terminate the agreement. On the contrary, the employers and others maintain that the agreement could not constitutionally be ended in this manner.

Several Labourites, including Mr. Arthur Henderson, opposed the strike. It is stated that many of the rank and file are lukewarm or hostile.

LONDON, September 22nd.
A nation-wide strike of 600,000 steel workers is announced to begin to-day. Their demands include an eight hour day and a six day week.

BOLSHEVIKS PROPOSE PEACE WITH UKRAINIANS.

LONDON, September 22nd.
Reuter has been informed that the Bolsheviks' Delegation have proposed peace with the Ukrainians on the basis of the independence of the Ukraine, with the condition that the latter remain neutral in the struggle against General Denikin and Admiral Kolchak.

This delegation declared that the Moscow Government has decided to conclude peace with all the National Governments in order to crush the counter-revolution.

THE BALTIC STATES.

COPENHAGEN, September 22nd.
The Latvian Information Bureau says that the Armistice conditions which will be presented to the Soviet of Russia by the three Baltic States will include the regulation of the frontier on an ethnographic basis, the creation of a neutral zone in which a neutral Power will maintain order, and the surrender of the Bolshevik Fleet to a neutral Power.

CONCENTRATION OF YUGO-SLAV VOLUNTEERS.

COPENHAGEN, September 22nd.
It is semi-officially stated that movements of Yugo-Slav troops and the concentration of Yugo-Slav Volunteer detachments are reported from the neighbourhood of the armistice line and Dalmatia.

REPATRIATION OF CZECHO-SLOVAK TROOPS.

PARIS, September 22nd.
The Supreme Council has decided to repatriate 50,000 Czecho-Slovak troops in Siberia. The Council has discussed the necessary measures, especially the question of shipping, which will be furnished by the United States, France and Britain.

AN ESTHONIAN COMMUNIQUE.

COPENHAGEN, September 22nd.
An Esthonian communiqué reports fierce fighting in the direction of Pskoff. Many enemy attacks on our trenches were repulsed with heavy enemy loss.

A WOMAN SMUGGLER.

A man and a woman were charged before Mr. Lindell this morning with the unlawful possession of 8974 loads of prepared opium valued at $4,700, found on a junk which was lying off Connaught Road Central. The woman said the man was not responsible and took all the blame on herself. The man was then discharged. Sergeant Cockle said the opium was concealed underneath some planks and all had to be taken out before the opium was seized. Defendant said a passenger left a parcel and she did not know it contained opium. His Worship sentenced her to nine months' hard labour.

DINNER REFUSED.

Following the refusal by the local discharged and demobilised men to attend a dinner in their honour the Guildford Town Council decided to abandon the dinner.

The men's refusal was a protest against the Town Council appointing as borough surveyor and engineer, Mr. Ernest Minors, deputy borough surveyor of Darlington. Of six applicants selected for interview, out of 67, Mr. Minors, aged 37, was said to be the only one who had not served in the Army.

The ex-Service members of the National Federation declined to take part in the celebrations "as a protest against the unwarrantable action of the local authority in deliberately passing over the ex-Service men. This action is a gross breach of the promise so often repeated that the men to whom this country owes its very existence to-day shall be remembered in future."

It was also decided not to accept the mayor's signed thanks for their services.

At a meeting of the council dinner committee it was pointed out that the dinner was being given by the townspeople and not by the council.

IMPRESARIO'S FUNERAL.

Fengle Emanuel, as well as 43rd Street outside, were packed with crowds of theatrical stars, singers, and comedians, who came to attend the funeral of Oscar Hammerstein, who was killed recently. The pall was borne by six leading theatre managers of New York. Mr. John McCormack, who was first brought to the United States by the dead impresario, had asked to be allowed to sing at the funeral service, and he sang Hammerstein's two favourite songs, "The Mystery of Life" and "The Lost Chord."

THE ENTERPRISING GERMAN.

As showing the eagerness with which Germany is seeking to re-establish trade with Britain, now that the postal censorship has ceased, a gentleman in North Wales has received a letter from a firm in Cologne, in which the writer apologises for troubling a stranger, but says he has obtained his address from a German firm with whom the British stranger had done business ten years ago. The writer enclosed a postal order asking for addresses of all British hosiery and other firms with whom he could open business.

DISCHARGED SOLDIERS' FUNERALS.

An Army Council instruction states that the sum of £7 10s. (which can be refunded by the Ministry of Pensions) is now allowed in respect of the expenses of a civil funeral for a discharged soldier whose death was attributable to a disability due to or aggravated by service during the present war.

A FINE IN THE OLD DOG YET.

"He is 14 years of age, nearly blind and the poor thing, who has been a faithful friend through a lot of adversity, never goes out," said an elderly lady when summoned at Kingston, recently, for allowing her dog to be unlicensed.

GIRL CLERK'S MISTAKE.

Lucinda Nance Frost, 18, described as a clerk, of Mayland-road, Clifton, was charged at North London with assaulting Constable Alfred Wade, a plain-clothes officer, by striking him with an umbrella at Lower Clapton-road. She admitted striking the officer, but explained that there was a disorderly crowd, and some constables in uniform were having a rough time with violent persons. The prosecutor pushed his way into the crowd and took hold of one of the prisoners. She thought he was a constable on strike, and would not resist hitting him with her umbrella, as she believed he was interfering with the men who were doing their duty. Constable Wade admitted that such a mistake might have been made, and Mr. Symonds discharged the girl.

R.A.F. GIFT TO A GERMAN.

Several thousand German prisoners, paraded at Dorchester, internment camp recently for the presentation of a R.A.F. gift to Pie. Bruckmann for bravery in an accident to two British aeroplanes at Salisbury Plain.

The machines collided in the air and one fell in flames. Bruckmann, a prisoner, working near, went to the burning aeroplane and rescued two officers. One died from his injuries. Bruckmann was severely burned. In recognition of his plucky act an officer of the Royal Air Force, on parade handed him a sum of money and a silver watch and chain. On receiving the gift the young German saluted smartly and his comrades stood at attention. The War Office has also recognised Bruckmann's plucky by granting him repatriation, and he is leaving for Germany at once.

SWEDISH DIPLOMATS SCANDAL.

The Swedish Attorney-General has ordered the institution of legal proceedings against seven Swedish diplomatic and consular officials previously in Petrograd and Moscow for irregularities and neglect in the handling of large valuable deposits placed with the legation and consulates there, some of which they are unable to account for. Amongst those indicted are the Swedish Minister to Russia (M. Demandstroom), the Cabinet Secretary (M. Dostroun), and the Legation Secretary (Baron Kerskull). Proceedings are being taken on the ground that they have not properly supervised the handling of deposits.

FRENCH MEMORIALS TO BRITISH.

The people of France do not intend to let the memory of five years' close association with our Tommies fade, for although the British troops are gradually leaving the country, even when the last man has departed there are still to remain tangible memorials to those days when they fought side by side.

The town of Havre intends to erect a suitable monument at the entrance to the harbour, where thousands of our men obtained their first glimpse of the country where they were to experience what modern war means, while at Dunkirk the townspeople are considering a project for the erection of a Merchant Service Club and Seamen's Institute. This is to mark the nation's recognition of the men of the Fleet and their auxiliaries, and the latest plan is to build an imposing monument to our Indian soldiers, who, with France's own coloured troops, did yeoman service in holding up the field-grey hordes of Germany.

VICTORS' REWARDS.

In recalling previous war awards the endowment of John Churchill, first Duke of Marlborough, should not be overlooked. He received no great lump sum; an annuity of £5,000 was the most Parliament offered as a reward for his victories. But he received an income infinitely greater than any General of later days. His pay as General of the English forces was £10,000 a year, supplemented by a similar sum from the States General, £5,000 as Master of the Ordnance, and £2,000 as Colonel of the Guards, were other plumes, and £15,000 annuity passed through his hands nominally for secret service.

His income for many years was estimated at £40,000, and in addition, the admirable Sarah, his wife, contributed to the family coffers £7,500, received for various Court appointments.

HILLS AND HOMES.

These heartrending tales of house and flat hunting in Hongkong call to mind the quite different troubles of a man who once lived here. They all want their houses or flats to be in Respectable Road, on the proper level, or at least in Conventional Terrace in the Right Quarter, and that makes it difficult, because so many into few won't go, and lots over. But this man was speaking of didn't know that it mattered what his address was, and he lived all over the place. Sometimes he had Portuguese neighbours who made their piano work very hard for its living, and sometimes Chinese neighbours who conversed in that loud way that makes you think they are angry when they are not, and these things to him made no difference. Only he knew there was something wanting, and that if he could find out what it was he would find contentment, which is the poor man's bank, and the manager of it very easy in the matter of overdrafts. Of course he lived also in the city, right in the central district, and still he could not feel at home. This was queer, because he greatly admired Hongkong, and he had what they nowadays call a Coshy Job. Moreover his liver was behaving itself.

Once he bought a clock because it had a strong, slow tick, and he thought it might remind him of the grandfather clock in his old home in the country, with whose pompous count of time all the really happy evenings of his life seemed somehow associated in his retrospections. It certainly helped for a while. He would sit down with his back to it, and read one of the old books, and presto! he was back at the other end of the winding lane of years, and happy for the while.

But that was what they now call camouflage, and it never really lasts. Facts beat against dreams like hailstones against a window pane, and a man simply must raise his eyes sometimes.

The trouble was quite simple, so simple that when by a fluke of imagination he discovered it he laughed. All his life he had been, through the eyes of all his houses, he had been accustomed to see branches and twigs and foliage fretting the sky. Now praise be to Providence there are trees in Hongkong. He instructed his servants to find him a home, and his only stipulation was there must be some sort of trees in front of it. That you will understand was the easiest thing for them, and they did not keep him waiting long. There came the first evening when he was to sit in his new home. He said afterwards that he did not suppose he would ever forget it, it was such an emotional adventure. He had surprised his fellow workers that evening by his eagerness to get away from the office, for as a rule he did not hurry. He got his easy chair, and his book, and his pipe, and sat on his new verandah. The magic began right away, and he knew that that which was lost was now found. This was home. Right opposite, through the twisty limbs of a fig tree, he could see one of those little hills that are so frequent in Hongkong, shaggy with small trees and bushes, all very soothing and green in the sunshine. It was so thrilling that he quite forgot his book (which was Hobbes's Leviathan) and he very nearly (but not quite) let his pipe go out. He could see all those little secret places that sunshine shows up on massed foliage, doorways to leafy grottoes where the diads play. There is always the chance that one of them will peep forth a moment, laughing and showing dazzling teeth. The birds go in to watch them, and come out chuckling and all affluter. So he sat there, and smoked, while the sun was going down. He says there was that peculiar throbbing hum as of a great dynamo, more a feeling than a noise, and threaded in it like a pattern a silvery fluting that he knew at once for the pipes of Pan. Fancy having Pan for a neighbour. What stupendous luck. There are actually some respectable people who have not heard that Pan lives here in Hongkong. The foliage darkened as the sun sank, and the bushes on the ridge itself were silhouetted against a sort of golden halo. The halo paled, faded, and was not, dying away like a melody, and the hill itself became a black patch in a vast purple shadow. He was smiling when they turned up the light behind him and told him dinner was ready. Evening after evening he sat there, marking the jolly changes of the marching seasons, and felt at last that for sure

Home is the sailor, home from the sea,
And the hunter is home from the hill.

Thus in Hongkong was one man's "housing problem" solved. But that, naturally, was some time ago.

SUGGESTED REGULATION.

A correspondent of our leading morning contemporary wants a "regulation" prohibiting junks and sampans from anchoring, and especially discharging and loading cargo, anywhere between the V.R.C. and the Star Ferry Pier. A moment's reflection and a knowledge of the neighbourhood will suggest that this is somebody at the Hongkong Club who objects to these things. He would probably be willing to prohibit any craft passing the Club windows that tarnished his ideal of attractive scenery. Was it by accident that he signed his suggestion "Junker," a word which in German has a meaning quite appropriate to the spirit of his proposals? The China Mail begs that the sampan people who tie up along that sheltered and convenient bit of sea wall be not molested. They are a convenience to the public, and they afflict nobody but curmudgeons who don't know how to live and let live.

SCHOLAR'S LETTER.

That was a good point made by "Scholar" in last night's China Mail, that our elementary education needs revising before we put the coping stone on our University. But for that there should be no appeal for public subscriptions. It is a Government debt, an establishment charge that will have to be faced. Did "Scholar," by the way, get the right sense of the remark that a great difficulty at the University is the excessive amount of individual attention that has to be given to each student? Were we to understand from that, as he did, that students are admitted who are insufficiently grounded? If so, what have the entrance examiners been doing? Candidates from afar have to pass certain tests, and local students should not be admitted who cannot pass the same. Are they?

DISPLAY.

In his notes about the new Governor, the contributor of "Sub Rosa" to-day refers to the dignity and prestige that are supposed to depend on official display. "Here in the east," he says, "appearances count for much. But this isn't the East. It is the Far East, and there's a difference. That which would impress the crowd in India would leave the Chinese cold. The Chinese have always been too democratic to be unduly impressed by pomp and show, and now that they are queasy Republicans, they would accept even an imperial procession like a mere circus promenade. Durbur displays solemnly affect Indians; they would only amuse Chinese.

FIGURES.

One officer says 85 per cent of the Russians are anti-Bolshevik. Another says 95 per cent. Still another says 75 per cent. That's military mathematics, with a touch of propaganda. Maskee. Take the lowest as correct. Why should we be reproached for leaving 75 per cent in the lurch? If 75 can't lick 25, they are not worth wasting good British lads on. Col. John Ward, whose talk about our "name stinking" was wired all over the world, has indeed defiled his own nest.

ARMS AND AMMUNITION.

A Chinese passing through from Batavia was this morning charged before Mr. Smith with the unlawful possession of a revolver and 100 rounds of ammunition.

Mr. J. H. Gardner appearing for the defence said that his client knew the law, but as he was taking the revolver right through with him to Swatow, he thought it would be allowed.

Disturbances were going on at the present time up there and he would need it for protection. Mr. Gardner asked his Worship for a lenient fine. Inspector Boulger:—There is some truth in the man's story, as he had possession of some Dutch money. His Worship imposed a fine of $50 and ordered the arms and ammunition to be confiscated.

THE VICTORIA THEATRE.

A FINE PROGRAMME.

"Little Mary Sunshine" can weep, weep real, bitter tears, too. Admirers of Baby Marie Osborne, the Pathe screen star, will be pleasantly surprised by the strong emotional role in which this little girl appears in her new play, "The Voice of Destiny." It is a thrilling drama and far above anything that has been previously offered with Baby Marie in the leading part. "The Voice of Destiny" comes to the Victoria Theatre for three days, starting to-night.

AMERICAN SAILOR IN TROUBLE.

An American sailor named Giddy was before Mr. Lindell this morning charged with behaving in a disorderly manner at Wanchai last night.

It appeared that he went into a Japanese curio shop and took away some brass ornaments and plates. When the shopkeeper asked him to pay, he refused and struck him. Defendant denied the assault. His Worship fined him $20, $5 to be the compensation paid to the shopkeeper.

Though the War Office frowns on the practice, the wearing of medal and order ribbons with civilian clothes is growing rapidly. It is a harmless vanity, extensively indulged in most European countries. But, vanity apart, another feeling which prompts the average wearer is his very natural desire that he shall not be regarded, now that we have returned to peace conditions, as one of those who escaped the meshes of the recruiters' net. Every man who wears a medal ribbon virtually challenges the man who does not. The practice is likely to spread.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

Mr. J. A. Jamieson of Messrs. Arnold Bros., Canton, has just left the Government Civil Hospital after a long illness, necessitating a vacation at Shanghai and in Japan.

For being in unlawful possession of two pounds of gun shot which, he said, he was taking to his children as a present, a Chinese was fined $10 at the Magistracy, yesterday.

A Japanese clerk of the Bank of Taiwan has reported the loss of a bag containing $10,000 between Fuchow and Hongkong while he was a passenger on the "Quinnebaug."

The wedding is announced to take place shortly at St. Joseph's Church, of Mr. R. M. Austin of Jardine, Matheson & Co., and Miss Margaret Grant Gordon, daughter of Mr. A. Grant Gordon, one of the oldest Scottish residents of the Colony.

The Raub Australian Gold Mining Co. advise the following output for the four weeks ended 13th inst.: Bukit Koman: Stone crushed 4,884 tons, gold obtained 1,020 ozs., average per ton 4.194 dwts. Bukit Malacca: Stone crushed 3,247 tons, gold obtained 292 ozs., average per ton 1,799 dwts.

The "Prize Packets," a fine combination of juvenile artists who charmed Hongkong not long ago when they appeared at the Victoria Theatre, are once more in our midst. They arrived from Amoy by the s.s. "Haichong" this morning after successful seasons at Shanghai, Tientsin, Peking and Amoy. They expect to show here.

One of the very few Scottish cave dwellers has died in Aberdeen infirmary as the result of being knocked down by a passing train. This was a McGregor Middleton, who for several years lived in a cave amidst the rocks and cliffs at Muchalls, near Aberdeen. He spent much of his time in reading, and was an expert catcher of fish and wild birds. It wasn't fair of the train to run into his cave.

The O.S.K. liner "Hawaii Maru" arrived in Colombo on August 30, in a disabled condition. When she was about 750 miles off Colombo there was a serious breakdown and she had to practically creep to Colombo. She is a twin screw boat, but one of the cylinders gave way entirely and she was obliged to come with the aid of only the other. There are over 500 Japanese emigrants on board, who are being conveyed to Brazil. She is being repaired by Messrs. Walker Sons and Co.

There is still a vacant Garrier, and rumour assigns it to Earl Beatty of Jutland (as it is supposed his new title will be). During the war Viscount French became a Knight of St. Patrick, and Sir Douglas Haig a Knight of the Thistle, so it would be in accordance with the fitness of things if the other leading Order of Knighthood were given to the Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Fleet. The senior Service, it must be admitted, has not been overloaded with honours. Two peerages and five baronetcies make a small figure in comparison with the seven peerages and four baronetcies bestowed upon the chiefs of the Army.

The Bombay papers are uttering a warning against the present mad speculation on the share market, which it is considered is far worse than its historic prototype of the sixties and presents ominous dangers to the industrial future of India. During the last few months the new companies have been springing up by the score, and there is no sign of the crop falling. Many of them are probably very sound commercial concerns, but the orgy of gambling which has followed in their train has been amazing. In many cases business has been done in shares before the prospectus has been issued and shares are at premium before the vaguest details are known. The Times of India points out that the real evil of this speculation lies not so much in the possible ruin of a few foolish gamblers as in the effect on the industrial future of the country.

An exciting affair occurred on September 2 at Dharamtala Post Office, Calcutta, owing, it is said, to some disagreement over a money order. It appears that a lady named Miss. Coombes brought a charge of assault and theft of jewellery ten days ago against the Post Office officials on their refusing to deliver to her a money order, which was payable to her, unless she was identified by some responsible person. The charge proved to be a false one, and out of revenge she presented herself at the Dharamtala Post Office armed with the leg of a toilet table which had a nail driven into it or one side, and on the authorities again refusing to pay to her the sum in dispute she is alleged to have struck the Deputy Postmaster on the temple with this weapon, rendering him unconscious. The police arrested Miss Coombes. The injuries man was removed to the hospital, where he remains under treatment. He will be a brave man who marries this Miss.

WANTS TO SHIFT THE UNIVERSITY.

OVER TO KOWLOON.

In the course of a thoughtful article on the University, the Daily Press this morning makes a startling proposal. It says:

It will be noticed that of the million and a half dollars which it is now proposed to expend on the University practically one-third is to be devoted to the erection and equipment of new buildings. This is not, perhaps, a very formidable sum, but, as there is more to follow, we think it high time that the question was settled as to whether a mistake was not made in choosing the present site for the University, and, if so, whether it would not be wise to repair that mistake without further delay. The more capital that is sunk there the more difficult it will be to move elsewhere. On the mainland there is ample room for future extensions and for providing those facilities for recreation upon the importance of which Dr. Jordan, the Pro-Vice-Chancellor, lays stress. One objection to the course we suggest is the inconvenience it might cause to the part-time lecturers and also to the medical students desirous of "walking the hospitals," though this latter should disappear when Kowloon is provided with a hospital of its own, as it must be in the near future. It is admitted that there are signs of congestion at the University, and already it has been found necessary to purchase an adjacent property known as "Haldon." On the island—or, at least, on this part of it—residential property can be spared, and it is probable that if the Government were to permit the sale of the present site the proceeds would be sufficient to provide for rebuilding in a district less populous and more salubrious both from a physical and moral point of view. Nobody would begrudge the gift, for it would cost the taxpayers nothing, while adding to the limited space available for housing accommodation in the neighbourhood. Courage, of course, is required in order to take the step, but still greater courage will be required later on. We urge those responsible to show a little of that "vision" for which H.E. the Officer Administering the Government has pleaded. We are glad to see some evidence of it in the acceptance of our suggestion for starting a School of Journalism in connection with Faculty of Arts.

THE HOUSING QUESTION.

GOOD NEWS FOR THOSE IN MILITARY QUARTERS.

The China Mail learns that the bogy of shortly becoming homeless is temporarily deferred for those civilian families occupying military quarters. In fact the military authorities are allowing one or two more to occupy quarters on the understanding that only short notice will be given.

This is a boon to many and the action of the Military ought to be, and no doubt is, much appreciated.

The reason for the respite is that the new regiment is coming out with only one family whereas 50 or 60 were anticipated. If rather looks as if the new regiment will be composed of very young men.

There is reason to believe that the quarters can be occupied by civilians till the middle of next year.

Having gained this respite it is up to the Government to build those small houses or flats.

ANOTHER OLD BUILDING COMING DOWN.

Another rumour that has been going the rounds is to the effect that the old St. Joseph's College, Robinson Road, has also been sold to Chinese. We have made enquiries from the director of the College but are unable to get any information from that source. The building is, we are informed, the property of the Italian Mission and it is not known yet what will be done with it. We have since learned from another source that there is no foundation for the rumour that the building is, or will be sold to Chinese. The building is being pulled down, we are given to understand, with a view to erecting a larger and more substantial edifice which when completed will be handed over to the Italian Convent as an annex. This charitable institution, we are told, has outgrown its considerably large premises and expansion is not only desirable but necessary. The Christian Brothers are still in occupation of the new building known as St. Joseph's College annex and situated behind the main building.

CORRESPONDENCE.

BOOTS AND "POISONOUS REPTILES."

[To the Editor of the "CHINA MAIL"]

SIR,—I am always pleased to be of help to my fellow mortals. "Enquirer" has made a nice calculation of the mileage "Jojo Gutz" has to walk with his boots—bless his mathematical head—but unfortunately he shows an utter ignorance of how Police Reservists do their duty. If "Enquirer" will call at the office of the China Mail he will be directed to me, when he will be shown a pair of black-boots which I purchased 4 years ago for police duty. This will enable him to save much of his hard-earned cash now spent on shoes, provided his feet are normally human.

"Jojo Gutz" ascribes my writing against him to malice. He cannot see that it was done out of pure benevolence,—that I was applying a poultice to his swollen-head. Megalomania can be cured in its incipient state, but if allowed to run its course, generally ends in Bedlam, and then poor "papa" and "mamma!" I really refuse to believe that "Jojo" has raised all this fuss and put on his brown-boots on parade, so as to have a chance of telling the public that they cost him $17.50. He also suggests that I can devote my time to a more "profitable pursuit." What pursuit? "Jojo"? Entomology I suppose and the sending of poisonous reptiles as presents to friends and foes?

Those who live in a glass house should not throw stones.

Yours etc.

COMING CONTRIBUTION TO HOUSING ACCOMMODATION?

There is a rumour that the Spanish Procurement Building and the grounds upon which it stands have been sold to Chinese and it is understood that the new owners are contemplating the erection of semi-European houses on the site.

THE UNIVERSITY APPEAL AND THE FRIVOLOUS.

How many dollars did Mr. Severn ask for on behalf of the University? One five and five-noughts.

I guess they can put it down for one of the noughts.

That's not right. You should say one five and five-noughts, and one of the noughts is yours.

You really ought.

"SUB ROSA."

[CONTRIBUTED.]

When these robes appear again, Sir Reginald Stubbs will have made his gubernatorial bow to the people of Hongkong, who will then have had some opportunities of seeing what manner of man it is that has become Hongkong's youngest Governor. If Sir Reginald is willing to be pleased with a thoroughly conscientious Governor, plain of speech, fluent of manner, with an amazing capacity for work, and a never-failing sense of justice for the true merits of any matter, Sir Reginald will be a success in Hongkong.

Let no one chide him as to his youthful appearance. Reginald is a young man of ripe, well-balanced brain, with administrative skill such as is not common among Colonial Governors. To nominal him of his youth is to miss a point that is not the less valuable because it is elevated in the scale of ability. He is a master of debate, because he never misses the crucial points of his opponent's case, and never fails to reply to them. He has complete knowledge of the rules of debate as those who tried to get a pass out of him in the day of his first trial.

The Hon. Mr. C. G. Abbot will find in Sir Reginald one who agrees with him that the functions of the Legislative Council is to legislate. He is a stickler for thoroughness in everything, and an incomplete Bill, with amendments to be filled in by the Governor-in-Council, will not come before the Legislative Council.

Sir Reginald Stubbs is a great live force in the dignity of the British Administration, especially in the East, where appearances count for a great deal. If he is here long enough, he will once a group of Government buildings to replace the Army group on Murray Battery. But, which now serves for so many offices.

The arrival of Sir Reginald's arrival naturally brings our thoughts to the war memorial scheme, which has been left over for his consideration and approval. The war memorial will naturally be dovetailed into any scheme of town improvements which the Government has in mind. It will be very surprising indeed if, within the next month or two, we are not told that the Government will immediately commence the building of a new City Hall and Theatre, an Urban Jack Club in a central site near the Naval Yard, and of course, a new landing pier, with a tall monument, surmounted with the names of those Hongkong men who fell down their lives for their country.

The burning question will of course be the question of improving the communication between Hongkong and Canton. This question has been shelved so many times that the members of the Council ought to insist on a decision as early as possible. The growing importance of that suburb, and the monthly pilgrimage of new residents from Hongkong, make an underground tunnel an absolute necessity.

Personally, Sir Reginald is perceived almost shy, and it will be many months before he becomes that friendly of a "democratic" character, which made Sir Henry May and the Hon. Mr. Chaud Severn so popular in the society of the over-achievers in the East. Sir Reginald Stubbs is the working kind, and we shall find him putting in as much or more hours at his official desk as any subordinate official in the Government Service.

It was a splendid thought of someone to have the Hongkong Defence Corps, Cadets, join in the gubernatorial honour that will welcome Sir Reginald. The new Governor is a great supporter of the Cadet Movement, for he believes in training the citizens of the future on the right lines. The Hongkong Cadets, and Girl Guides, will be the object of much attention from Government House, and, if it is not too late, I hope that a detachment of Girl Guides will also be included in the guard-of-honour.

It is to be hoped that the members of the Legislative Council—particularly the Hon. Mr. S. H. Dodwell and the Hon. Mr. B. V. D. Parnell—will lose no time in improving upon the new Governor that of all the improvements which have been shelved owing to the war, the question of paramount importance for the business life of this Colony is that of improving the shipping facilities in the Hongkong Harbour. The requirements of the port in regard to this matter are so thoroughly familiar to every business man that I will not labour the point. This is only meant as a reminder that leading and undulating facilities must be improved at Hongkong, and it is going to receive the larger quantity of shipping that is already coming in a way, and that such improvements must be effected at the earliest possible moment.

THE NEW GOVERNOR?

WHAT BE THESE NEW DIGGINGS?

Once again Mister Maindram is being disturbed in Statue Square, and a China Mail reader has asked us why. We haven't had time to find out for sure, but will not a three-month subscription that it's for "diggings" for the new Governor?

There ought to be one at this place where the old Governor's office was, but we see no sign of a beginning there. May we suggest that an arch at the wharf is worth two in the Square?

DEATH OF INSPECTOR LAMONT.

FUNERAL THIS EVENING.

We regret to announce the sudden death of Inspector Neil Lamont, of the Hongkong Police Force, which occurred at 10 p.m., yesterday at Taiipo, New Territories. The deceased, who was 38 years old, joined the Police Force as a Constable in 1897. He was widely respected by all members of the Force. He had not been feeling well recently, and last night when Sergeant Hoare entered his quarters, he looked so sick that medical aid was sent for. He was on his way to hospital when he died at 10 p.m. Before coming to Hongkong he had been in the Army in India with the Scottish Highlanders. He was a very efficient officer and during his time at the New Territories where he was in charge, he rendered valuable assistance to the Chinese authorities in surrounding a gang of robbers and kidnappers and saved three children from captivity. He also effected the arrest of three murderers who were alleged to have strangled to death a woman restaurant keeper. His many friends will bear with deep regret of his untimely demise. The funeral will take place this evening at the Protestant Cemetery, the service being the announcement at 8.30 p.m.

The Police Reserve Force having just a lingering death, one begins to wonder when the Hongkong Defence Corps is going to be demobilized, and then reconstituted on a voluntary basis. Volunteering is not a popular pastime to-day, for everyone feels that they have had enough, and that the need for drill and shooting practice is past. No one will deny that the Hongkong Defence Corps, as a body, did its bit manfully, and the members are entitled to a rest for a year or two. If the H.K.D.C. were demobilized to-day, and an immediate attempt was made to reform the Company on a voluntary basis, there would not be 300 men in Hongkong who would join.

The appeal made by the Hon. Mr. Chaud Severn, on behalf of the Hongkong University, for the subscription of a million and a half dollars for immediate needs, is one that must call for the earnest consideration of the richer Chinese both in Hongkong and in China itself. The Chinese nation is under a debt to Britain that a University was established in this Colony, and that it was provided, in pre-war days, with a staff of which any University in the East would have been proud. If diplomatically approached, there is no reason why the Chinese Government should not donate at least half a million dollars to the scheme.

When the Hon. Mr. Chaud Severn goes on leave in February, it is very likely that Hongkong will have to bid him a long farewell. Mr. Severn is due for a promotion, which must come sooner than ever because of the tardy and able manner in which he has administered the Government of this Colony since the departure of Sir Henry May. Mr. Severn was Colonial Secretary of Hongkong before Mr. Stubbs (now Sir Reginald) was Colonial Secretary of Ceylon, and the truth is that some disappointment was felt that the Colonial Office did not give Mr. Severn the Governorship of Hongkong.

Meanwhile, rumour has been busy with his name in connection with the Governorship of the Straits Settlements. If Mr. Severn is selected to succeed Sir Arthur Young, his appointment will be generally popular, for he is held in great esteem in British Malaya, where he served for many years before he came to Hongkong. It does not seem that there is any other vacancy imminent to which our Colonial Secretary can be appointed, unless it is to one of the new acquisitions in Africa. Sir Hugh Clifford, who succeeds Sir Frederick Lugard, has made way for Sir P. Guggisberg in the Gold Coast.

The revelations made at the hearing of the "flour" case against the M.B.K. in regard to the profiteering in flour by Hongkong firms ought to give the Government, the members of the Legislative Council and the general public food for thought. As it is with flour, so with sugar, and butter, and jam, and tinned foods, and milk, and ham, and bacon, and books, and everything.

HIS MAJESTY'S CIVIL

WAR OFFICE RECORD.

Whatever may be the shortcomings of the Civil Service—and these are due more to the machine than to the man—there can be no doubt of the fine patriotic war spirit which animated everyone in its ranks down to the very humblest official. It was the spirit of the trenches, which considered no hours too long, no task too arduous, so long as Germany was beaten. That the great part played by the Civil Service in this world drama is appreciated by those most competent to judge is proved by the declaration of the War Cabinet, quoted recently in these columns, that the "Empire owes a lasting debt of gratitude to the Civil Service." The Civil Service, like every other public institution, is not exempt from legitimate criticism, but the wholesale and reckless attacks which have been so popular in certain quarters can only injure the country's best interests, inasmuch as they tend to undermine the moral of the service and deter the best men from joining it. At any rate, in this war it must be admitted that the Civil Service, on its matter as it never was before, has "made good." One noteworthy fact is that its administration, bending to the exigencies of the time, became much more elastic and peace precedents and mouldy rules and regulations went largely by the board. In other words, the great State machine became much more human and businesslike. With the world rocking to its foundations, the little things, of so much importance in peace times, did not count. The machine was smashed by the war, and is never likely to be set up again in its old rigidity. Thus has the war, giving it a wider and more sympathetic outlook, making for greater efficiency in the future and more businesslike methods. There has already been evolved from the dust and sweat of war the nucleus of the new type of Civil servant, which Lord Haldane would obtain through the London School of Economics.

The "Old Contemptibles" of the British Regular Army have earned imperishable fame, and their name liveth forevermore. There is, however another little army of men who bore the brunt of the first days of war, but whose work hitherto has practically gone unrecognized—the small body of trained Civil servants and War Office staff, who, like their militant brethren, formed the nucleus and backbone of a great army of workers which was to contribute in no small degree to the successful conclusion of the greatest war in history. The methods of the War Office, have been held up—often quite unjustly—to ridicule by people who are unacquainted with the difficulties of its complex administration, and they foretold a dismal failure as soon as it became evident that the war was going to assume exceptional proportions. But they had misjudged the old tried Civil

A JAPANESE MARRIAGE.

PUBLIC DISCUSSION OF PRIVATE AFFAIRS.

There is nothing mysterious or hidden in the life of the Japanese, like there is in the life of most Eastern nations. Indeed, there is far less privacy than among Europeans. Yet Occidentals often find it very difficult to understand their point of view. Especially is this the case in questions of marriage. We may contrast two similar cases—those of President Wilson and Mr. Tokonami, the Home Minister. The President had the misfortune to lose his first wife during his term of office, and when a decent interval had elapsed, announced his intention of re-marrying. There were reasons of publicity—photographs and newspaper reports of the beautiful widow, who she was, where she came from, her amusements, her charities, her charm, where and when she and the President met, how much her husband's admirer had left her, and so on—and more news still of the wedding itself. It was all exactly what we know we should expect. American journalists, however, are always in search of a new sensation, and are not overburdened with sympathy, so perhaps they might learn something from the manner in which the Japanese Press treated the second marriage of Mr. Tokonami—which was in a sort of bond between the editorial and the "page 3" style.

The first Mrs. Tokonami died last April. The original relations of Mr. and Mrs. Tokonami had been an exemplary one they had been happy. The Jiji spurns neither the Home Minister nor its readers a description of the sad moment of parting. Mr. Tokonami, it says, took his dying wife's hand and said: "Go in peace." I think you for the cure you have taken of me for so long. Taking a cup of water, he resumed: "Let me drink a parting cup." And with these words he conveyed some of the water in the cup into the mouth of his wife with a spoon and drank the rest of the contents himself together with his children. After this sentimental parting the lady quietly bid her hands and blessed her husband as gently as if she were going to sleep. The bereaved husband was inconsolable and wrote a series of reminiscences, which he entitled Teniku-gawa (an offering to the spirit of his deceased wife) and distributed printed copies of it among his friends and relatives. The writing is said to have been couched in words so touching and expressive of tender love that nobody could read it without tears and a lively sympathy with the writer for the irreparable misfortune which had overtaken him.

A MARRIAGE HAD BEEN ARRANGED. On the 22nd July—that is, a little over a hundred days after his loss—he was unexpectedly reported in the papers that he was going to marry a lovely widow of thirty, the daughter of Baron Miyagawa, the Eighth Prince of the Kasuga Shrine in Nani; and the wedding took place next day at the Shinto Shrine at Hibiya, Tokyo. In this connection, Mr. Tsuchihata, Secretary to the Home Minister, who seems to have had a considerable share in bringing about the marriage, spoke as follows (we quote from the Nichi-Nichi): "A believer in simplicity and straightforwardness, Mr. Tokonami objected to the idea of the wedding being celebrated in usual form and proposed that the ceremony should be held in the presence of the relatives of both parties and his friends alone, and that it should take the form of a solemn announcement before the memorial tablet of his late wife. Having three children to look after and it being impossible to leave the care of his household to a maid-servant, he was urged by his friends to re-marry. A lady being selected, he was asked to see her, but he replied that if his friends thought her suitable it was not for him to object. To this, however, the lady's relations objected and a mild (mutual) seeing) was held. At the meeting of relatives held at his official residence recently (Mr. Tokonami being keenly interested in religious 'harmonisation' schemes), Abbot Heiki of the Eiheiji temple remarked to him that he had believed that he was going to remain single during the rest of his life, for the sorrow and lamentations filling his 'Offering' had led people to believe that he would never receive a second wife, but Mr. Tokonami answered that he was not a religiousist but a layman and politician and that it was impossible for a politician to lead a complete life single-wheeled. Lady Mitsuko (the bride) is going to resume the name of his former wife, Kyo."

A VERY AWEWARD SITUATION. Western readers (especially the ladies) will agree that the mid was advisable. It would hardly be respectful to the lady to exhibit such entire indifference as to take her merely because she was well recommended. The lady, whose photograph suggests goodness and seriousness as well as beauty, showed the ready self-effacement so charming in her countrywomen, but the bridegroom, it might be felt, should not take everything for granted, but take an interest in her personally—this more since he found the personality of his first wife so precious. However, Mr. Tsuchihata has not told us all. The newspapers also tell a story of other political satellites who had Mr. Tokonami's domestic felicity thrust upon them. With the "Offering" in mind they hesitated to approach Mr. Tokonami on the subject unless they could find his waverer consent with a firm (and attractive) offer. So they took the somewhat irregular course of approaching the lady first—she being the beautiful widow of a distinguished diplomatist. The lady consented, and the satellites were just scrambling up their courage to see the Minister on the subject, when he appeared, very spruce, with nothing of the manner of a man announcing that he would not attend office that day, as he was getting married! Perhaps the papers covered the dramatic coincidence. But the satellites' obligation was an inevitable one, and for the lady, with all her Japanese training, it must have been a difficult moment to pass over without betraying the fact that she had other feelings besides a desire that her visitors should be as easy. We may be sure she came through the ordeal with more dignity than the satellites. But is it possible to imagine Mr. Tsuchihata and Mr. Makino having a race to see who would be first to find a lovely widow for the President? We may be sure the President did his own share. But this, in Japan, are the private affairs of great men not only arranged for them but discussed in public as well. They even tell us that the second Mrs. Tokonami was not exactly a widow, but was formerly married to a brother of her Majesty the Empress, the marriage being dissolved for some cause of the many reasons which in Japan are considered sufficient reason for separating those whom the law hath joined.

The Japanese idea of marriage is not purely business-like nor is the Western idea purely romantic—both are blends, and blends in different proportions. And in both East and West there is a disposition to call on other people to bear the burden of the marriage. It is due to this tendency or in protest against it that the following comments are made. Totally unexpected and a little irregular in some respects, the Tokonami marriage could not fail to attract comments, although no paper thought it worth commenting on in a leading article. The comments summarised below were printed in out-of-the-way corners (as it were) of the papers after the manner of gossip talking behind their sleeves.

A contributor in the Jiji signing herself (or himself) "A Widow" writes: "It is reasonable that a young person should re-marry when bereaved of a mate; but Eastern usage is so deeply rooted here that while a widow may not only immediately re-marry but require a third or fourth wife without arousing any adverse comment, public feelings are against a widow venturing on re-marriage so that it is not at all rare for young women early deprived of their husbands to remain single during the rest of their days. This comes of these Confucian teachings which permeate the manners and customs of this country and according to which a faithful wife must not see a second husband. But why should there be such a difference between men and women? To take recent occurrences as examples, Mr. Tokonami, the Home Minister, re-marrying before 100 days had elapsed after the death of his former wife and the Press is rushing much of it—a fact on which Mr. Tokonami is to be highly congratulated. On the other hand, the wife of Yamada Ken, the notorious murderer was severely taken to task for having been re-married to him (Yamada) within one year of the death of her first husband. [And still more severely, it may be added, for divorcing Yamada after this arrest.] Is it thus undeniable that public comment is lenient to men and hard on women in the matter of re-marriage? Should the wife of a departmental minister or a man of a like position re-marry only 100 days after the death of her husband, what would people say?"

MR. TOKONAMI DEFENDED. Another writer in the same journal, evidently a friend of Mr. Tokonami, writes in an apologetic tone:—"Re-marriage once admitted to be justifiable, why should it be wrong to re-marry 100 days after the death of one's spouse, while it is right to do so after the lapse of one year? Perhaps the former is contrary to custom, but custom is not necessarily sound. What is the moral ground on which is founded the distinction of deferring re-marriage until one year has elapsed? Confucius taught that it was filial piety not to alter one's father's ways for three years after his death, because, says a commentator, a man is in mourning for the space of three years after the death of his father. I only contend that there is no absolute reason why the limit should be one year and not 100 days. Mr. Tokonami is a statesman leading a busy life; and on that account and for the proper education of his youngest daughter, aged 12 years, he felt that it was necessary for him to re-marry. At the same time he was probably prepared for his early re-marriage exciting unfavourable comment; but he was not such a coward or hypocrite as to have put off for nine months what he believed to be necessary for himself and his daughter.

LUNATIC IN COURT.

A coffee was before Mr. Smith this morning charged with behaving in a suspicious manner at 3.30 this morning in Des Vaux Road Central. A European Sergeant said he was on duty in Des Vaux Road Central, when he saw defendant wandering about from place to place, and looking up at all the buildings in the vicinity. He with a Chinese detective went up to him and asked him what was the matter when he said "I wanted to steal!" He was arrested and brought to the Station.

Mr. Smith: Why were you wandering about so early in the morning? Defendant (surprised): I don't know. The Interpreter: What were you doing in Des Vaux Road Central this morning?

Defendant: I didn't do anything. The Interpreter: Were you stealing or were you going to murder somebody?

Defendant: No, I didn't murder anybody. When did I do it? Mr. Smith: How many years have you been in Hongkong? Defendant: Where in Hongkong, I have never been to that place. The Interpreter: Can't you understand what we are speaking about? The place you are in is Hongkong? Defendant: I never knew that. Mr. Smith: How many years have you been in Hongkong? Five years. Defendant: No, oh yes, five years I was in Hongkong.

Inspector Boulenger: He is one of his sons, I think. Mr. Smith: I don't know what to do with him. Send him to jail for fourteen days under special guard and he is to be examined.

Mr. The people, however, who read the "Offering" must have been surprised at his marriage, and rightly at first sight, but he is a man who knows how to be sorry without wholly giving himself up to grief and despair. He wrote his "Offering" with a view to explore his grief once and for all. It is a well-known fact that when a man cries to his heart's content, he finds himself relieved of his pent-up feelings. Mr. Tokonami wrote his "In Memoriam," he cried heartily under the public gaze. Viewed in this light, his "Offering" might have prepared one to expect his second marriage. Anyhow, when one meets with an act which is contrary to custom, one feels a shock as when a machine working easily and smoothly is suddenly brought to a standstill by a slight obstacle. It is this psychological condition which renders the work of reform difficult.

DISPARITY IN AGE BETWEEN A MARRIED COUPLE. Writing in the Kokumin, a lady of the name of Nishikawa Fumiko remarks:—

"Mr. Tokonami is 54 years old and his new wife only thirty. Women who have no desire for knowledge and are confined at home, uneducated and unoccupied, as the women in this country have so far been, may age much earlier than men; but in the case of cultured women of the present day, why should they decay earlier than men? In Europe there are people who urge that the difference in age between a couple going to be united in wedlock should be legally provided not to exceed five years—a view which I heartily endorse because an ideal marriage is the union of a man and woman of the same age. In case of re-marriage, however, a widow often marries a young man twenty or even thirty years her junior, and such a marriage is invariably contracted on the plea that a house must have a mistress and the children a mother! Is it right that a sober old gentleman, who gives himself out to be solicitous about the maintenance of good morals and purports to be a pattern for others to follow and who finds it morally objectionable that mushroom millionaires are clothed in fine linen and are sumptuously married, a young man does not amuse himself with a geisha or prostitute. So long as it is fashionable for old widows to marry young women, there will be prostitutes all the same, even though professional prostitution may be put out of the door. However, love is probably said to be blind and an exception may perhaps be claimed where such a union is founded on love. But in the case of Mr. Tokonami, his lady was introduced to him by his accommodating secretary. I understand it was his expressed desire to have a woman who would observe the family ways formed by his late wife. The new lady is a happy woman to have been married to a man who is so affectionate to the memory of his late wife as Mr. Tokonami seems to be. I could not help smiling at the dramatic knack which Mr. Tokonami showed himself to have in a large measure by proposing that the new wedding should be celebrated before the picture of his deceased lady and that the name of his new wife should be altered into that of his old wife."

The lady who wrote this certainly has the faintest glimmer of well-developed sense. She confesses her own immaturity in suggesting that Japan is too young for discretion.—Japan Chronicle.

SPORTING MEN AND PARS.

Mr. E. C. Kirk, the Surrey County amateur, playing for the London County, Westminster, and Parr's Bank, brought off a sensational bowling feat, the like of which he has never before accomplished in this grade of cricket. After the Bank had scored 146 (Mr. W. D. Bradley 85), Mr. Kirk helped to put the Bank down for 26. The Bank left-handers captured 9 for 6 and took 5 wickets with 5 consecutive deliveries!

Supporters of some of the Scottish League clubs are protesting strongly against the increased charges for admission to League matches next season. Petitions have been signed by some thousands of persons who have pledged themselves to attend League matches until the old charges are restored. If these objections keep their word the position of the clubs will be serious. In the opinion of the club officials, however, it is believed that when the season opens the dissatisfied ones will accept the inevitable and pay.

J. Douglas Edgar, professional to the Druid Hills Club, Atlanta, Georgia, won the Canadian Open Golf Championship at Hamilton, Ont., with the record score (for 72 holes) of 278. He played sensational golf, and his score was 18 strokes better than his nearest rivals, three of whom fell for second place. These were James Barnes, the Western open champion, Karl Ketter, of Toronto, who won the Canadian championship when it was last played for at Toronto in 1914, and Master Bobbie Jones, the Atlanta amateur, who as a boy of 14 reached the third round of the American amateur championship at Haverford, Pa., three years ago. Edgar, before leaving England this year, was professional to the Northumberland Club, at Gosford.

Tottenham House-pur, like all other clubs, have been busy team-building. The players so far engaged by them for next season include:—

Goalkeepers: Jacques, Chayrakis (the French international), and W. French, M.M. (Gillingham). Defenders: Clay, Pearson, A. Goodman (Gillingham), and R. Brown (Thames Valley). Half-backs: Elliot, Grimdell, James Minter, B. Smith (Huddersfield), J. Skinner (a schoolboy international), and J. Argibell (Motherwell).

Forwards: Walden, Cantrill, Ellis, Banks, Middlemiss, A. Lindsay (Bath Town), H. Lorimer (St. Mirren Juniors), C. Wilson (Covington), A. Redpath (a schoolboy international), J. Darnock (Orient), and J. Chipperfield. All except Chayrakis are professionals.

A young player, Miss Christina Clarke, has established a ladies' record for the Reddish-Vale golf course, Lancs., going round in 78. Miss Clarke, who is only 18 years of age, competed in the Ladies' English Championship at St. Anne's in May, but was beaten in the first round by Mrs. Medington.

In connection with Hobbs' scores of 113 at Lord's, and 120 (not out) on the Oval, it is interesting to note that, except W. G. Grace, no batsman has previously made a hundred of the two grounds in Gentlemen v. Players matches in the same season. Dr. Grace performed the feat three times: in 1870, 1872 and 1873.

Before the Football and Southern Leagues came to an agreement regarding the transfer of players, Southern clubs often strengthened their teams by engaging well-known players from Northern or Midland clubs. The agreement, however, practically put a stop to that, as the Southern clubs were unable to pay the high transfer fees that were demanded, and it is generally recognised that from that time the strength of many of the clubs in the South declined. Now that the agreement has been ended by the Southern League, club supporters in the South are taking keen interest in names of players who are being engaged to appear with Southern clubs next season.

Swindon Town have obtained the signature of Harold Fleming, their old forward, for next season.

Plymouth Argyle have re-engaged the following players—S. Atterbury, M. Russell (the Welsh international), backs; W. Forbes, S. J. Davis, K. Kinnear, half-backs; J. Kinnear, Kellack and S. Biot, forwards. Newcomers will include Bull, the former Northampton forward, and David Jack, son of the Argyle manager, who was given a trial by Chelsea.

J. H. Taylor, the Mid-Surrey golf professional, and five times open champion, left England in company with the Aga Khan on July 20, for a month's tour of the Continent. The tour will include visits to Switzerland and France. Taylor does

WHOLESALE ARREST OF STUDENTS IN CANTON.

GENERAL STUDENTS' STRIKE MAY FOLLOW.

More than one hundred and sixty middle school students, who persisted in carrying on the boycott movement by preventing the importation of the so-called "low grade" goods, thus defying the order of the Police Commissioner Ngai Bong-ping to suppress the crusade, were arrested by several hundred armed policemen between five and six o'clock last evening.

The students were assembled in the Native Customs "Building" near the Y.M.C.A. on the Bund, and were looking for "low grade" goods under inspection in the Native Customs, when they were suddenly surrounded by several hundred policemen who promptly placed all of them under arrest, and marched them directly to the Police Station of the Sixth District, where the youthful crusaders were temporarily pending further action on the part of the police authorities.

Upon learning of the startling news of the wholesale arrest of their comrades, the students of the Middle School Students' Union were very provoked, and threatened to declare a general strike of all the middle schools in order to secure the release of those under arrest.

not anticipate taking part in any matches.

The following are the dates of the Association International matches to be played next season:— October 4: England v. Wales, in England (Victory match); October 11: Wales v. England, in Wales (Victory match); October 25: Ireland v. England, in Ireland; November 15: England v. Ireland, in England (amateur); February 14: Ireland v. Wales, in Ireland; February 29: Wales v. Scotland, in Wales; March 13: Scotland v. Ireland, in Scotland; March 15: England v. Wales, in England; April 10: England v. Scotland, in England.

At Lutetia-on-Thames Victory Regatta recently the punting handicap for the Lutetia Cup was won by E. Berg, Oscar, who beat F. W. Frederick, sec., in the final. The Ladies' Champion Croquet Cup at Richmond recently was won by Miss D. D. Steel, who was the holder. She accomplished an excellent performance in winning 10 games out of 18, beating her own record of 14 games in 1914.

In the rifle shooting competition at Bletley recently the results were: London and Middlesex Counties Rifle Association, King's Prize, first stage, Mr. Downes, 91; Stock Exchange Rifle and Revolver Club, Mr. T. Coates, 88; North London Rifle Club (ten shots), 80, 500, and 600 yards, Mr. Rose, 180.

The 25 miles N.C.U. championship at New Brighton, Liverpool, on Bank Holiday was an eventful contest. H. E. Ryan, London Polytechnic, the holder, was put out of the race by a puncture four miles from the finish, and in the final lap four riders crashed, S. F. Bailey, London Polytechnic, and W. Watkins, Pembroke, having to be carried off the track. The winner was S. Winstaff, Suffolk H., in 68 min. 0.2 sec., second place going to A. Byron, Wallasey Boro. Ryan secured the one-lap cycle scratch race by a narrow margin from A. White, of Southwark. In the running races A. G. Hill, Polytechnic H., the half-mile and mile champion, accomplished a fine performance, winning the mile handicap from Swinton in 4 min. 25 sec., and on a wet track H. F. Edwards, Polytechnic H., captured the 220 yards, off three yards, a shade inside 23 sec.

David Gregory, whose death took place at Sydney recently, will have an honoured place in cricket history as the captain of the first Australian team in England. The tour in 1878 established once for all the fame of Australian players. Born on April 15, 1845, David Gregory was in his 75th year. For some considerable time before he came to England he and his brothers were among the most prominent cricketers in New South Wales. He was not a batsman with any special distinction of style, but his defence was so strong that on hard wickets he could get plenty of runs. In March, 1877, he played at Melbourne for the Australian team that just beat an England eleven on level terms. He was Sydney Gregory's uncle.

The chief results at Cookham Regatta recently were: Double sculls, H. Pitt and W. A. Porter; single sculls, Guy Lacey; double sculls, A. Liddard and Guy Lacey; mixed coxed, Miss M. Shaw and H. E. Hewens; rowing four-oared race, Abbey House. The winning crew included three blinded officers from St. Dunstan's.

F. Burch, the Plymouth Argyle centre-forward, has been transferred to Swansea.

John Halsey, one of the best centre-forwards St. Mirren have had, has been transferred to Reading.

HIS MAJESTY'S CIVIL SERVICE.

Many names could be mentioned, if it were desirable, of those who have done excellent work, but among the heads three persons stand out above all others: Sir R. H. Brade, Secretary, Sir Charles Harris, Assistant Financial Secretary, and Sir H. J. Creedy, private secretary to the Secretary of State. Of Sir Reginald it is said that for the first months of the war he practically lived in this room, working, eating, and sleeping there, always at call night and day, and not an extraordinary record for a not over-strong man. He was helped in his work by two assistant secretaries of the War Office, On Sir Charles Harris, the Assistant Financial Secretary, developed the main responsibility for financial matters, and his advice often proved of immense value. Private secretaries are not born every day, but if ever there were a man fitted for the onerous post of private secretary to the Secretary of State for War it is Sir H. J. Creedy, K.C.B., C.V.O., who served in that difficult post with distinction, not only before the war, but right through it to the present day. He has been the right hand of no fewer than six Secretaries of State since August, 1914, and his suave manners and good nature have stood him in good stead in many difficult and awkward situations. He was recently given a K.C.B., an honour thoroughly well deserved.

In spite of inevitable mistakes and unavoidable delays now and again, owing to the sudden transition from peace to war and the consequent scrapping of many well-thought-out schemes which the test of this unexampled struggle found to be impracticable, the Civil servants and the Civil staff of the War Office may well be proud of their record, especially as many of them, through sticking to their old posts, lost chances of promotion in the many new departments which the war called into being.
